Welcome to the new term, everyone. I hope you all had a really lovely summer holiday. This is your final year at Braxton School and this time next year many of you will be at university or starting a job. It's an important year for lots of reasons. Next June, of course, there will be all the examinations, but before that, you have to make some big decisions. In March, if you want to continue studying, you will need to apply to college or university. If you decide not to go to university and you want to get a job, then your teachers will give you advice about where to look for work. Of course, there is another choice – you can take a year off studying and maybe travel or work abroad to get some experience and some money!

All this year we will be offering extra lessons which will give you some useful advice about universities and careers. The first session this term will be about looking after your money. Our financial expert, Mr Williams, will give a talk about banks next Monday. It will start at 4 o'clock. It doesn't sound exciting, but it is very useful! Miss Parks will give her talk about applying for courses at university the following week. Then I shall give a talk about finding a part-time job, which is a good idea for some of you as it gives you some work experience. Employers and universities like that. Over the year, we're inviting some people who have different sorts of jobs to talk to you all. If any of your parents have an interesting job and would like to talk about it with the students, please ask them to phone the school secretary on 07890 655 234.

So, I just have to say good luck with this year and tell you that next week's talk about banks will be in the school hall. We hope to see lots of you there!

1 Woman I'd like to book an excursion.

Tourist information officer Of course. Do you know which one you're interested in?

W Well, my husband and I both like history, so we thought maybe the castle ... I imagine it's quite atmospheric?

TIO Yes, it is. There's also a night-time excursion to the Roman ruins.

W A night-time excursion? At night?

TIO Yes. The ruins are far more spectacular at night.

W No, no. I like to be in bed by 9 o'clock. The castle sounds much better.

2 Man Hi. I'm interested in booking an excursion for tomorrow.

Tourist information officer Certainly. What did you have in mind?

M Well, the market looks beautiful. And I want to see the harbour too.

TIO Well, I suggest going to the market tomorrow.

M Really? Why's that?

TIO Tomorrow is Friday. The market isn't as crowded on Fridays. At weekends, it's really busy – too busy, in my opinion.

M OK. Thanks for the advice. I'll go to the market.

3 Woman Can I book an excursion, please?

Tourist information officer Yes, certainly. Which one are you thinking of?

W Well, I went to this temple twenty years ago. I'd really like to see it again.

TIO No problem. Twenty years ago, eh? It's probably a bit different now.

W Really? In what way?

TIO All the temples are more touristy these days.

W Yes, yes. I suppose so.

TIO And the excursion is quite expensive, I'm afraid: £30.

W But I'd like to go there anyway.

4 Man Oh, hello. Can I ask about your excursion to the harbour?

Tourist information officer Yes, of course. What would you like to know?

M Well, there's a morning excursion and one in the evening. Which do you recommend?

TIO They're both great. The evening excursion is much less busy.

M I see.

TIO And it's more romantic, in my opinion.

M OK. I'll go for the evening excursion.

Transcript

Sandy Valdivieso and her husband were looking forward to their holiday in Africa. They had tickets for a Turkish Airlines flight from Los Angeles to Dakar, the capital of Senegal in West Africa. However, an airline mix-up sent them 11,000 kilometres away from their destination, to another continent. They boarded their flight at Los Angeles International Airport in the USA. But unfortunately, an airline employee at the airport accidentally entered the wrong three-letter airport code into the flight booking system. The code for Dakar is DKR. But the employee entered DAC, which is the code for Dhaka, the capital of Bangladesh, in Asia. The first leg of their flight to Istanbul in Turkey went smoothly, but it was the second leg of the trip that sent them off in the wrong direction. From Turkey, they headed East rather than West. At first, Sandy and her husband did not notice that there was a problem. When the flight attendant said they were heading to Dhaka, they thought she was saying 'Dakar' with a Turkish accent. Several hours into the trip they woke up from a long sleep and noticed the inflight map showed the plane over the Middle East. They then realised the plane was full of passengers who looked Asian, not African. That's when they knew that there was a serious mistake. But there was nothing they could do about it: they had to continue on their way to Bangladesh!

Once on the ground, it took several hours for the airline to confirm the mistake was their fault. They apologized to Sandy and her husband and 12 hours later, they flew them back to Istanbul. From there, they took the correct plane to Senegal. To say sorry, Turkish Airlines offered the passengers two free economy class tickets to any destination it flies to.

Teacher Where shall we stay, then?

Student Nothing too expensive.

T Pardon?

S I'd prefer to stay somewhere cheap.

T Well, there's a nice little hotel in the Old Town. It's quite cheap; about £60 a night. If that's too expensive, there's a cheaper hotel near the station.

S Either suggestion is fine by me.

T OK. Let's stay at the hotel in the Old Town, then.

S Fine. Where should we eat, do you think?

T There are some good restaurants in the main square.

S What kind of food do they serve?

T Most of the restaurants here serve local food. But there's an Indian restaurant, too.

S Sorry, did you say 'Indian restaurant'?

T Yes, that's right.

S Oh, I'm not very keen on Indian food. Let's eat local food.

T OK.

S I'd like to do some sightseeing. What do you fancy?

T The fountain in the Old Town is very beautiful. It's near the cathedral, which is also worth a visit.

S That sounds like a great idea. What's the best way to travel around?

T Well, if we stay in the Old Town then we can walk everywhere. But perhaps we should go to other parts of the city.

S We could always buy a travel card.

T That's a really good plan. I'd prefer to travel by bus or tram than to walk.

S I agree.
