Volleyball is a team sport in which players use their hands or, arms to knock a ball over a net. There are two teams, each team has usually got six players. Volleyball can be played indoors or outdoors.

What do you need to play volleyball?

Net: A tall net that divides the court into two sides. Your team plays on one side, and the other team plays on the other.

Volleyball court: Volleyball is played on a court that is 9 meters long knee pads. If you want extra protection for your knees, you can wear knee pads while playing.

HUSKIES

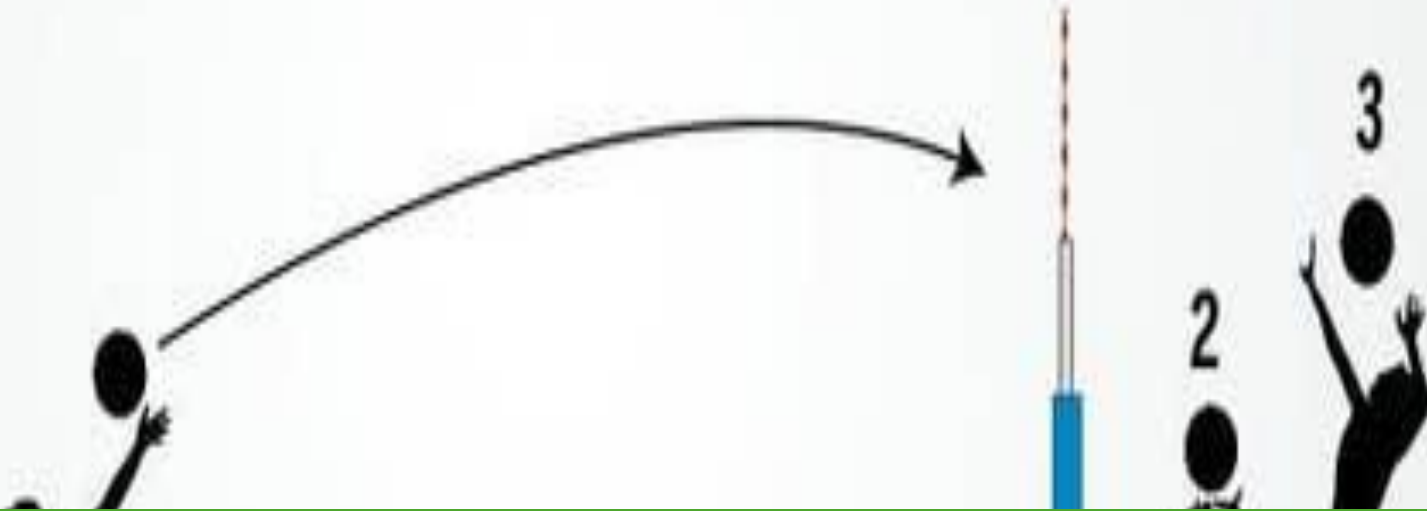

What are the main rules to play volleyball?

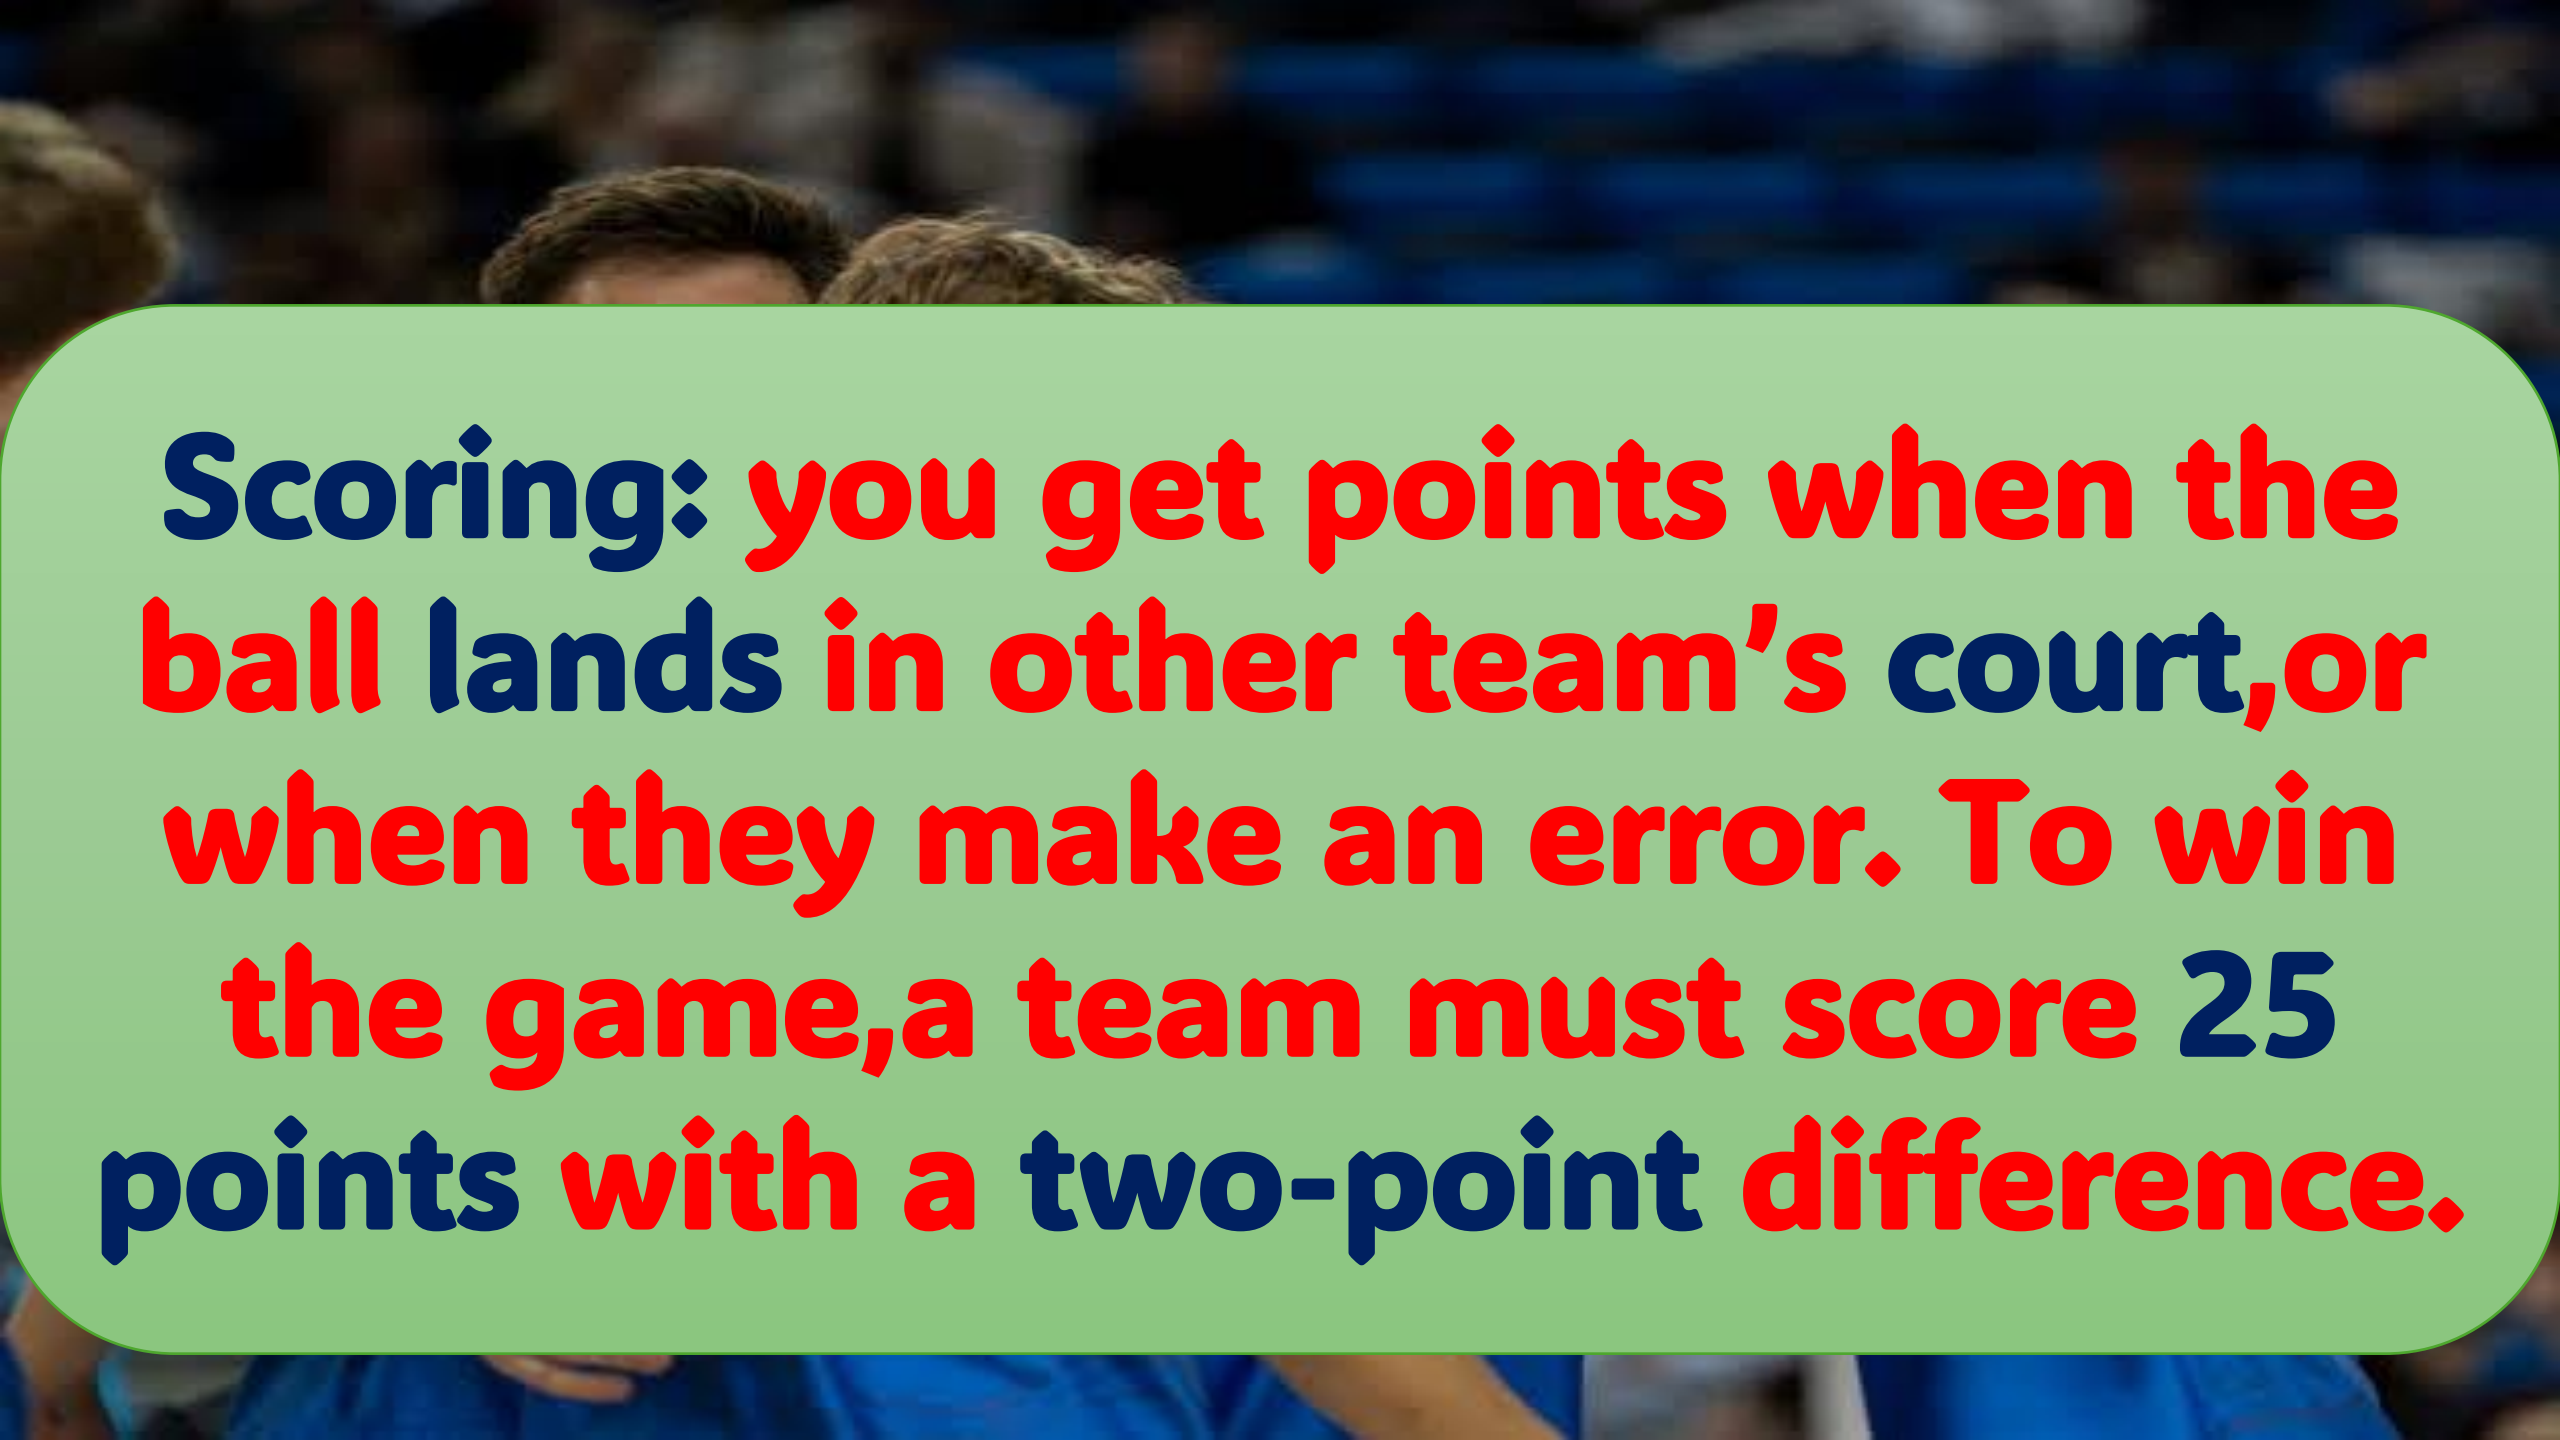

Serving: One team starts the game by serving the ball over the net to the other side.

Three hits: Each team has up to three hits to return the ball over the net. No holding; you cannot catch or hold the ball. It must bounce off your hands cleanly. No double hits; A player cannot hit the ball twice in a row.

Scoring: you get points when the ball lands in other team's court, or when they make an error. To win the game, a team must score 25 points with a two-point difference.

Teamwork: volleyball is a team sport, so teamwork is quite important.

Ice hockey

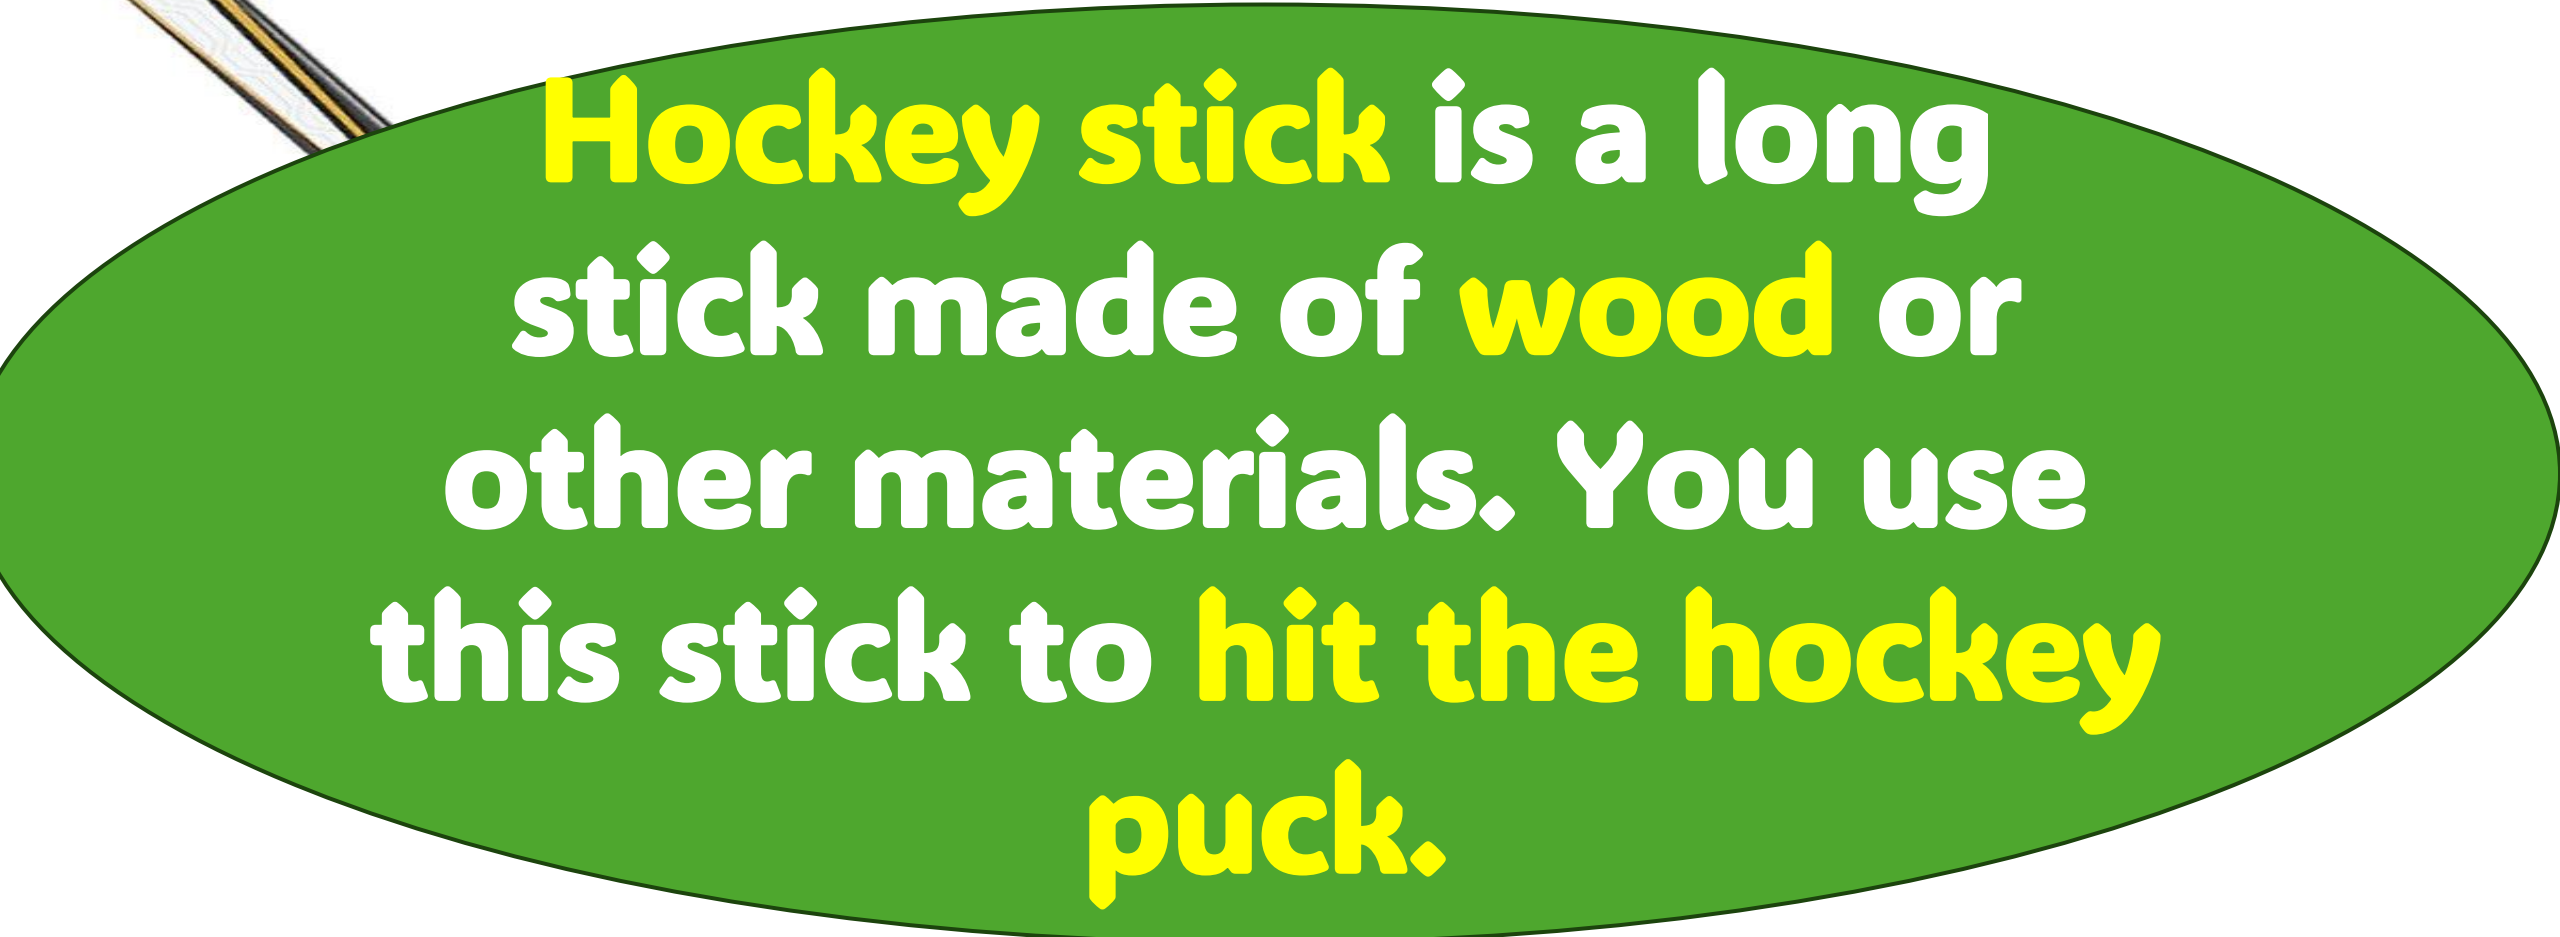

Ice hockey is a team sport. It is usually played on an ice surface called a rink. Hockey players wear ice skates and move with great speed on the ice. There are two teams. Each team has six players. A team scores when it moves the puck—a small, hard disk—into the opponent's goal.

The background of the image is a photograph of an ice hockey rink. The ice surface is visible at the bottom, with blue and red lines. The arena's seating and bright blue overhead lights are visible in the upper portion of the image. A large white oval with a green border is centered over the rink, containing the text.
