DAILY STORIES

by Margarita Mason

Today I'm writing this blog about my oldest sister, Sofia. She's 22 years closer than me, it's her birthday today and she's 21. She doesn't live in the town, house as my parents and me, but her flat is in a different town! We live at number 22 Spring Street, and she lives in one of the flats at number 63. During the first year I got to spend! I have a problem, and she always tried to help. She also helps me with my English homework. We all speak Spanish at home, but Sofia speaks English really well too, as a second language. She knows some English from school, but she also teaches it to English music and watches English films. Another thing she is great at is playing. She's teaching me to play the guitar now. Today's really great. And I love the music and the dance.

My sister's interested in everything. She loves learning about science on the internet, and she often reads books about history in her free time. She also does three sports: football, swimming and running. She enjoys them all and is good at swimming. She likes camping, and she's learning to play the piano at the moment, too. She can't play very well yet, but she practises every day. She's also learning to learn the violin. She's a very active person! I really don't know how she has time to do so many things!
