

Iranian architecture is renowned for its distinctive elements like iwans, domes, and courtyards, often combined with intricate geometric patterns and vibrant tilework.

Iranian architecture is beautiful symbolic and full of meaning

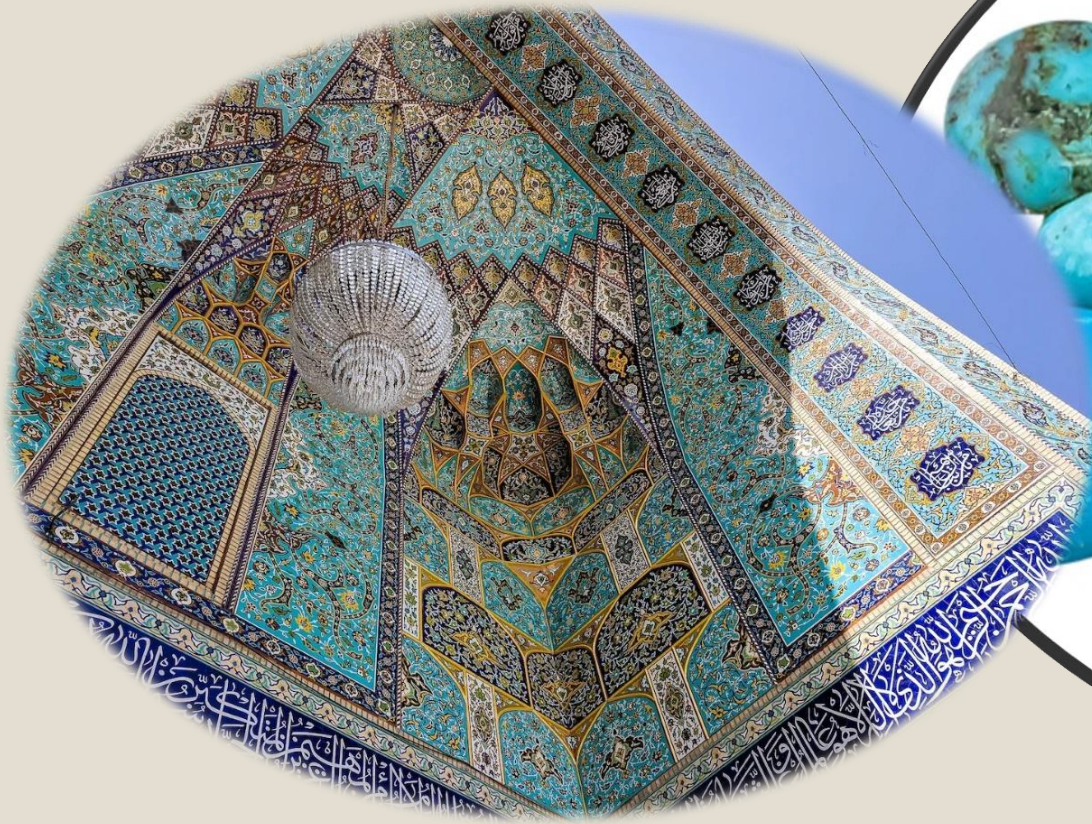

Tilework

Iranian architecture utilizes intricate tilework extensively to enhance the visual appeal and structural integrity of buildings

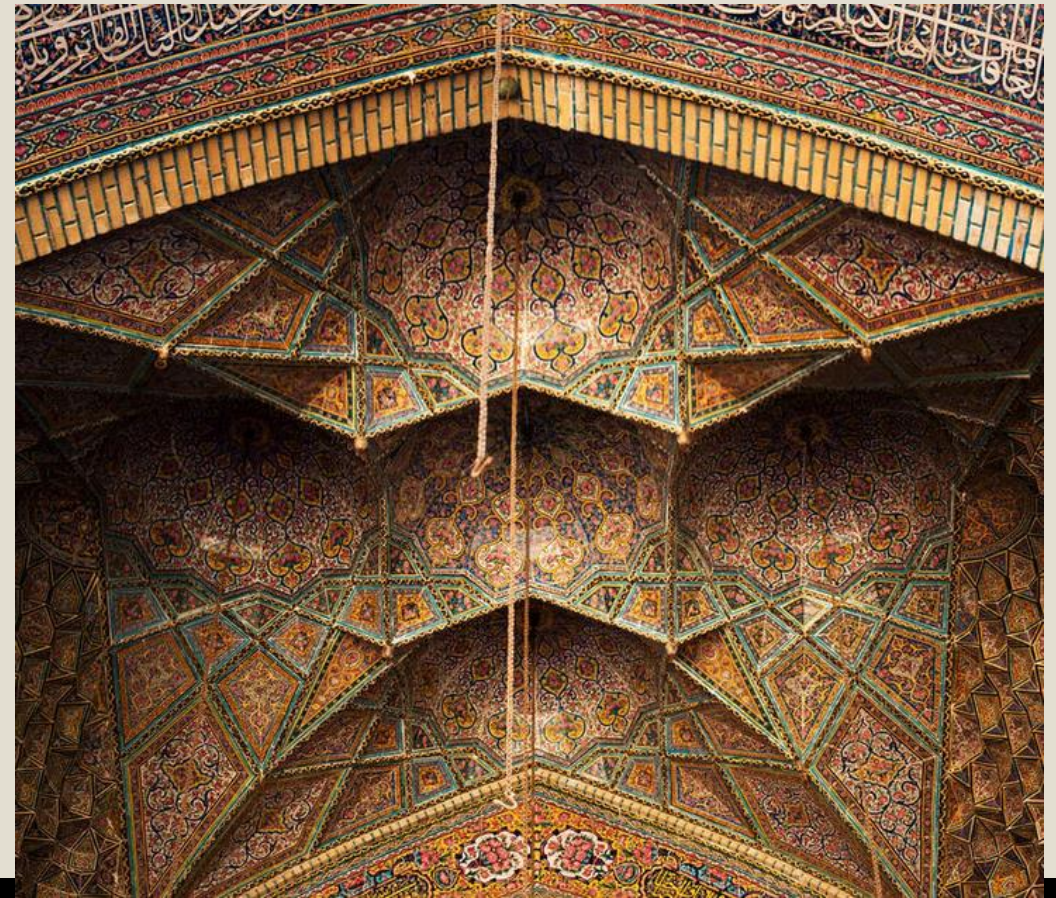

Turquoise is a blue-green gemstone known for its unique color

gold tiles

In Iranian architecture, gold tiles are primarily used to impart a luxurious and opulent feel, particularly in religious buildings like: mosques and shrines, as well as palaces and royal mansions

calligraphy

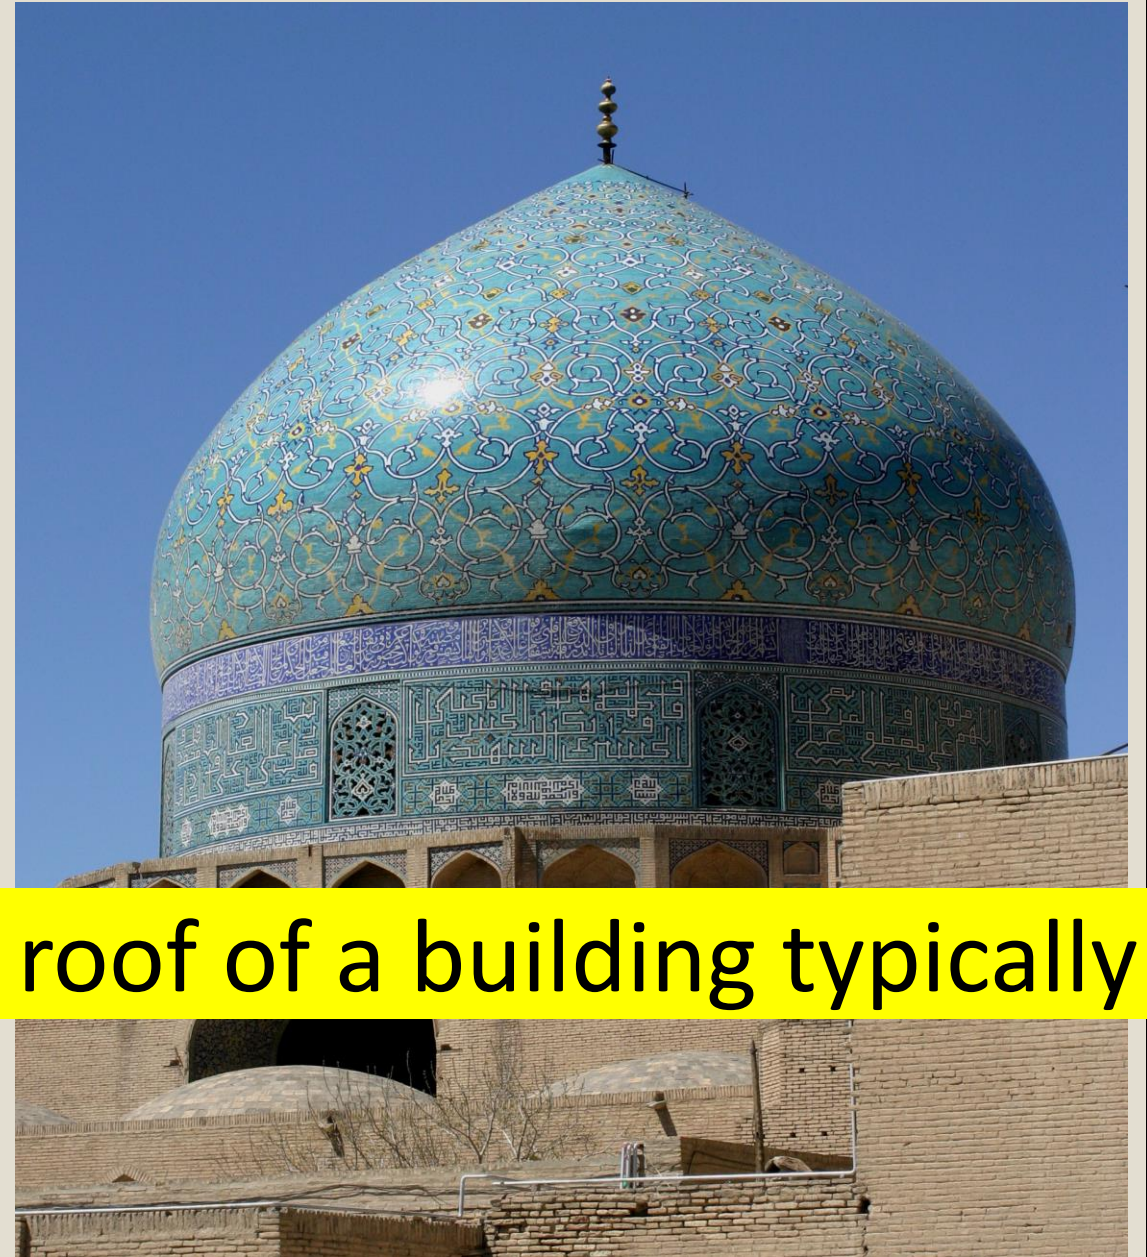

Iwans

a large arched entrance or porch

dome

a rounded vault forming the roof of a building typically with a circular base.

colorful domes mirror mosaic

minarets

Tall tower beside mosques

Used to call people to prayer famous example of Iranian architecture ancient Palace with a stone columns and cravings

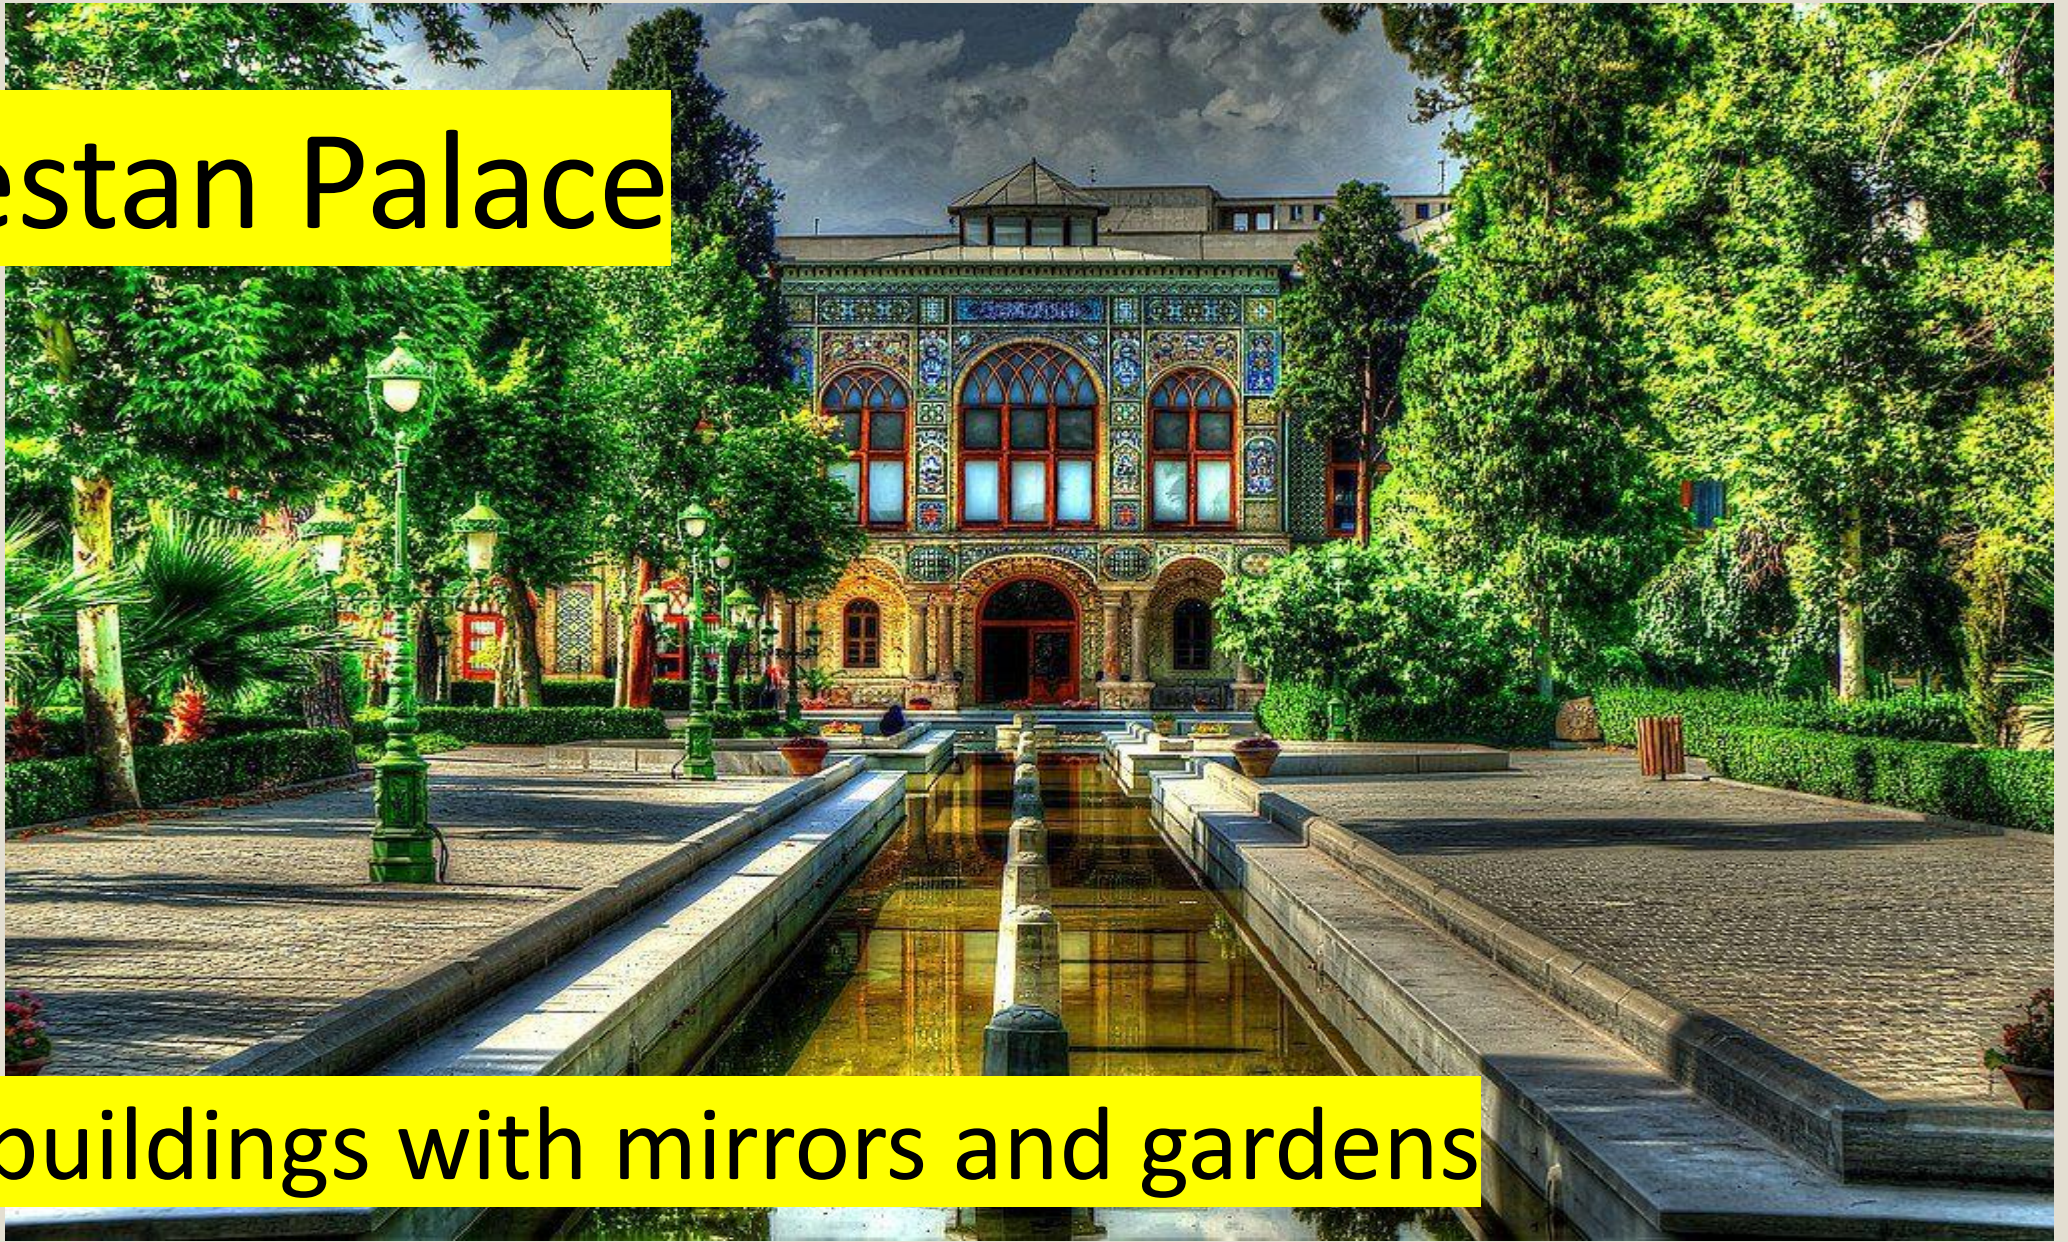

The Achaemenid Empire, also known as the First Persian Empire, was a major Iranian empire that existed from approximately 550 to 330 BCE.

shah mosque of Isfahan

Golestan Palace

royal buildings with mirrors and gardens windcatchers

Towers that's cool the air using natural wind