

Hello everyone. Today I want to talk about Iran's architecture.

Iran has a very old history. It was the center of Persian Empire. Its architecture is famous for symmetry, blue tiles, and domes.

One famous place is Persepolis. A royal city with columns and carvings.

Shah mosque is famous for calligraphy tiles.

Golestan palace is famous for mirror mosaics.

Iran's architecture is very symbolic with beautiful shapes. Like windcatchers in Yazd, used for cooling air naturally.

Italy is in Europe. It is famous for food, fashion, and beautiful architecture.

The Colosseum is a very old stadium in Rome. They used it for shows and games. They built temples, roads, arches, and columns.

In modern Italy, there are amazing green buildings like Verticale. It's a pair of tall towers in Milan with trees on every balcony. They're environment friendly.

Italy shows how architecture can be old and new at the same time.
